

Mario Bellini - Architecture 1984 -1995

Mario Bellini has worked as an architect and designer for more than twenty years. In 1987 he was honored with an exhibition at the New York Museum of Modern Art, and his designs for Vitra and Rosenthal have already become legendary. His architecture is inspired by a special sense of detail and form. Bellini supplements his design work with an intensive theoretical discussion and also approaches the subject of architecture in his work as an exhibition designer here, his widely praised presentation of renaissance models from Brunelleschi to Michelangelo in Venice and Berlin comes to mind. This book documents the most important buildings, projects, and exhibitions of Bellini and thus provides an overview of the creative work of this internationally renowned architect.
